We are not claiming any attorney-client privilege, as we don't have a client relationship with AZDEQ and have not signed a common interest or joint prosecution agreement.

Subject: 2020-6-9- WAFB ST012 -request EPA assess potential attorney-client privilege -emails with EPA butler & fairbanks

Can EPA please skim the email title screen shots (attached document), and assess if any emails could be potentially attorney-client privileged? The emails all contain a Thomas Butler or Brianna Fairbanks name reference.

Most are unlikely to be attorney-client privileged, but just happen to have Thomas Butler and Brianna Fairbanks in the distribution list.

If you wish a detailed reading, please provide me with a method to copy the actual emails to your attention.

ADEQ is responding to a record file request submitted by the Patrick Townsend litigation firm. Can you please respond by Wednesday, June 10, 2020?

ADEQ will release the ST012, files dated 2016, 2017, & 2018 to the Patrick Townsend firm on Thursday, June 11, 2020.

Thank you.

Thanks Wayne.

EPA's attorney contacts for the Williams FOIA are cced above. Brianna Fairbanks and Thomas Butler are current and former site attorneys for Williams; Daron Ravenborg and Sandra Lesch are lead for the FOIA response.

Can you please let me know if USAF or US EPA have any concerns about attorney privileged info associated with ST012 activities from 2010-2020? ADEQ is gathering items to respond to the Patrick Townsend litigation firm record file request. If there is a concern that communications to ADEQ hold any attorney client privileged info, please let me know counsel names and keywords that ADEQ should run through as a file search.

ADEQ expects to respond by June 1, 2020.

Thank you.
